Prepared for Christmas ?

Today the Church tells us to 'rejoice', Christmas is getting nearer. Have you made a good confession yet ? Don't leave it until the last minute. The priest will be glad to help you make a good one. When someone important comes to visit us, we tend to clean and tidy the house. There is no more important a visitor than Our Lord Jesus Christ, who wants to come to us at Christmas. So clean your spiritual house in good time. Make a brief, but good 'examination of conscience'. There should be one in your prayer book or missal. Ask God to enlighten your heart, and be conscious that, when you come to confession, you are speaking to Jesus, whom is all love and mercy, who wants to confess your sins, to express sorrow for them, to do penance for them, because He wants to forgive you. Don't put it off any longer, go to confession before Christmas. You will be giving Jesus a good birthday present by doing so.

Church Heating

As you are no doubt all aware, our church heating system needs replacing. Canon Montjean has engaged our new Architect, Mark Pearce for advice about a new system, and he has decided to tackle this as a separate project because it cannot be included as part of our Heritage Grant which is to restore the roofs. However, he realises that a cold church this winter is not good for our congregation so beginning this project to raise money for a brand new system is now urgent. Under Mark's supervision, Canon will engage a specialist heating engineer to carry out a feasibility study to design the most efficient system for our building, with detailed specification going out to competitive tender. Professional services like this cost money and we will somehow need to raise this either via donations or grant funding. If anyone has an experience in raising this kind of money or would like to help with this fundraising, please get in touch. And if not, a few prayers in this direction to ask Almighty God to provide wouldn't go amiss. Thank you

And she brought forth her first-born Son.... LK 2:7

Why do the Evangelists call Jesus the 'first-born son' of Mary? (cf Mt 1:25; Lk 2:7)? These words are an enigma, for Blessed Mary is ever-virgin and has no other physical children, before or after conceiving Jesus. However, when we expound the text according to the mind of the Church and with the help of her Fathers, worry gives way to wonder. The first aid to understanding is provided by St. Jerome. Every only child is a firstborn; what you need to be firstborn is to lack siblings who precede you, not to possess siblings who succeed you. But why does the sacred author choose such a problematic term? Because in the mind of Israel it was not a problematic term but a profound title with many levels of meaning in the vocabulary of faith: the firstborn male, of men or cattle, belongs in a special way to God. 'Sanctify unto me every firstborn that openeth the womb among the children of Israel' (Ex 13:2) The unprecedented offspring is an object uniquely precious, a gift of God's goodness that deserves to be offered back in gratitude. This attitude is presupposed by the sacrifice of Isaac: the firstborn is a candidate for consecration, the sacred victim par excellence; but even that statement does not reach far enough into the mystery of the firstborn. Before the institution of the Aaronic priesthood, the eldest son of each family served as priest.

In the 'Jewish way of thinking then, to say 'firstborn' is to suggest dedication to God in a twofold sense, both the destiny of a victim and the dignity of a priest. When (Saint) Luke (...), carefully reproducing the Jewish way of thinking, tells us that our Lady 'brought forth her firstborn son', he is imparting one of the chief truths of Divine Revelation: the child of the Virgin, only born and therefore firstborn, is the fulfillment of all the worship of the Old Covenant. The only Son of God and Mary, is the definitive Priest and ultimate Victim.

According to St. Paul, the Lord Jesus is 'first - born' in a more than legal way: He is the 'first-born from the dead' (Apoc. 1:5), 'the first-born among many brethren (cf Col 1:18). He is the firstborn son of God, the Only-Begotten of the Father, Son by nature, who in the flesh He assumed is the first to be born to the new life of the Resurrection. Through our Baptism, we are His members and brethren and so become reborn sons of God, sons by grace with the hope of being sons in glory, in the Resurrection. St Bede quotes St. John, "But as many as received Him, He gave them power to be made the sons of God" (Jn1:12, and makes this comment: 'He is rightly called the "first-born" of these [adopted sons of God], because in dignity He comes before all the sons of adoption, even those who preceded by birth the time of His Incarnation.
