Excerpt from the Bishop's Pastoral Letter

(...) Christ has left the Church the task of telling the world the story of His love. He has always called other shepherds in every age and season to feed and nourish His people by proclaiming the Gospel and celebrating His life-giving sacraments, especially the Holy Eucharist. (...) As you must be aware, dear brothers and sisters, we are experiencing a time of need in our Diocese of Lancaster where priestly vocations are concerned. The diminishing number of priests and seminarians has meant the merger and linking of parishes, a process that is far from finished. In his message for this Sunday, Pope Francis urges young people to be bold and courageous in answering the Lord's call. Young people need our help too in the Church: let all of us – parents, grandparents, teachers, priests, religious and laity – encourage and promote those considering a vocation and never hold them back with our own anxiety and discouragement. God will reward their generosity – and ours – in ways we can only imagine. The Church has always turned to Our Blessed Lady in times of challenge and need. Mary's response to God's invitation was total, and her faith and love gave the world Jesus Christ, our Lord and Saviour. With the powerful assistance of her prayers, joined to ours, may the Lord look kindly on His Church and upon our Diocese of Lancaster in particular, and send us sufficient priestly and heroic shepherds to care for and feed the flock He has redeemed with His blood.
